

Flexible security on the road

Whether it's a joyride, a long-distance trip, or an everyday short trip: Once the engine is off, the helmet comes off. Then you need a safe way to store it.

The ABUS Cobra steel cable ensures that both helmet and accessories are reliably waiting for you right where you need them when you return: on your bike. The two loop ends are practical for you to simply pull your motorcycle lock through - and you're done. Thanks to the durable synthetic coating, the paintwork on your machine won't be scratched. Furthermore, the ABUS Cobra is available in a variety of thicknesses and lengths. You can't always take your helmet with you once you've parked your motorcycle, and nor do you want to. With the Cobra steel cable by ABUS, you've got a simple and effective solution to use. You have to lock your bike anyway, and it hardly takes any extra effort to pull your lock through the loops of the Cobra, too. You can choose the length of the lock cable to suit your needs. The ABUS Cobra is also suitable for many other security purposes - at home as well as on the road.
